

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Desert Star's latest parody takes on the Christmas villain that everybody loves to hate! No, not the Grinch... The Grouch! This zany parody opens November 8th and it's a hilarious musical melodrama for the whole family you don't want to miss!

This show, written by Ben Millet, with an update for 2018 and directed by Scott Holman, follows the story of the Whoville Orphan Sisters as they attempt to save their Christmas future, and presents, from the notorious Grouch. Also hot on the Grouch's trail is the handsome huntsman, Hunter Hyrum Y, who blames the green goon for the loss of his arm. The team pursues the Grouch into the snowy mountains surrounding their town, only to encounter an even greater threat... one so dangerous, they just might need to join forces with the Grouch himself in order survive! Comedy, romance, and adventure are all on the docket for this delightful send up of the classic children's story, as well as topical humor torn from today's headlines.

"How The Grouch Stole Christmas" runs November 8th through January 5th, 2019. The evening also includes one of Desert Star's side-splitting musical olios, following the show. The "Swingin' Christmas Olio" features hit holiday themed songs and merry, musical steps mixed with more of Desert Star's signature comedy.

Food is available from an á la carte menu and is served right at your table. The menu includes gourmet pizza, fresh wraps, appetizers, and scrumptious desserts.
